Six billion dollars is of amount that the country has ever atsue but that only means that the peo ple of this country must screw up their determination to the point when they declare that there can be no su thing as failure.

The money which is sought is needed by the government. In fact it le announced that arrangements have already been made for its expenditure to such an extent that it will be exhausted by the time the money has been paid in. This is necessary for the success of the war. The financial aid which this country has been able to give has been of untold benefit in bringing about the present conditions on the battlefields. It has not only made possible the placing of an American army numbering close to two million men in Europe, but it has permitted the extension of assistance o the nations with which we are allied in a countless number of ways.

Having done our part so effectively up to this point it is incumbent upon us that we see it through, and that we do everything possible to advance the end of the struggle. This is a vital period. Every dollar is required and the people of this country must see that what the government asks The boys on land and sea are not faltering. They are doing their utmost and it remains for each and every individual back here at home to make a corresponding response to duty. This is the time to act and action now means the buying of Liberty bonds to the limit. Let everyone sense his responsibility and hasten the victory.

PRESSING THE AUSTRIANS.

In all theaters of the war there has been marked activity of late except along the Italian front, in Mesopotamia and in Albania. That new blows are in preparation in these regions there are good reasons to believe, and in Albania the move has already been

When the allied forces in Macedonia broke into the Bulgarian de-fenses in Serbia and put Bulgaria out of the war, it furnished the oppertunity for the Italians not only about Monastir but in Albania to gain get active, and that they are responding to the favorable conditions is being shown by the retreat in which the Austro-Hungarians in Albania are said to be participating The enemy didn't have to be told that their forces in that region were open to serious danger. Such was perfectobvious with the Bulgars giving up Serbia and they are consequently getting out of that region with all possispeed and destroying what they cannot move, while it can be appreciated that the Italians are not losing ony chances to harass them and bring about a still greater demoralization than already exists. With the claim made that Albania is cleared of the enemy, it is no insignificant blow which was struck a the Austrian naval station established at Durazzo. The destruction of that mportant point together with the destruction of Austrian warships is in keeping with other daring and telling blows which have from time to time been struck in the Adriatic, and with the Austro-Hungarians on the run on and and sea it will not be surprising to learn of the opening of another blow in northern Italy for the clear-A well directed blow at that point would have a telling effect at

We are all aware that "time and tide wait for no one," but time may be adapted in a measure to our needs and our renable coal mines which are located in that vicinity, the pressure which has ing breakneck speed in getting out of been exerted in the present offensive Albania, and unless we are mistaken not only at that particular point but along the whole western line has been such that the Teutons have recognized the impossibility of retaining that and other points. They are therefore yielding to the pressure lest they should be onfronted with even greater disaster. To the allies, however, the taking of the Lens sector will be of ne slight importance. That part of France is capable of turning out millions of tons of coal yearly. The loss of it has been a serious handicap to that pation. It has been necessary to look elsewhere for fuel involving not only greater expense but a serious shortage and the employment of means of transportation which would not otherwise have been required. The recovry of the coal fields will therefore be of great aid to France in its war work and preparations for taking advantage of them is shown by the asembling of new coal mining machincry and an army of miners ready to tackle the task of getting out the fuel. Lens is thus one of the big prizes of the new offensive.

IN A HARD PLACE.

Much is being said favorable to the ew German chancellor, Prince Maximilian of Baden, but it will be remem bered that such has been the case in connection with several of the recent appointments to that position. Not a little was expected of Michaelis and gone down before the difficult fob which they undertook. They were unable to pull the reins of govern ment so as to satisfy the kaiser and meet the demands of political parties which have not been in entire accord with the aims of the war lords.

It is of course in Prince Maximil lan's favor that he has long been iden tifled with those inclined to a moderate view of the war in Germany. He has spoken his mind and he is on rec ord as being against conquest. That meant that he did not favor the pandermanic ideas which would make of Germany the one great dominating empire in the central part of Europe. The allied offensive which has forced the German armies to give up a vast amount of territory, and the drive which out Bulgaria out of the war and tore an irreparable hole in the central powers, denying to Germany the use of the Berlin to Constantinople railroad and in all probability providing the decisive reason for what will mean the elimination of Turkey will mean the elimination of Turkey likely to discover. Quite a discussion the war, has of course changed conditions at home. There is discontent and discouragement and the junkers may be seeing the need of at least pretending to change their views I was surprised to see a toad running the title that the evening and haven as if he had for least pretending to change their views but it is a well known fact that the chancellor is expected to carry out the wishes of the kaiser and whether the new appointee can do that and still hold to his own ideas is something which he is now going to have : chance to demonstrate. His chancellorship therefore is going to be watched with widespread interest.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Do not try to play a double part. In times like these there is no half-way ground on which to stand. One must be for their country or against it. To be luke-warm is to be a suspect. The issue is so well defined that there is no excuse for not knowing where one stands, or for being a weak link in the national cable. America is standing now as the hope of the world, and the Stars and Stripes is the emblem of humanity to the people of every freedom-loving nation and tribe on the face of the earth. America is in the war to maintain for all tribe on the face of the earth. America is in the war to maintain for all time that Right is Might! And to slay that viper of hell, Might is Right! Any man against the government is not protecting his own freedom. We should all be conscious that "the greatest glory of a free-born people is to transmit that freedom to future generations."

The fall cricket is no favorite and many people dislike the mournful notes he utters; and few of us realize notes he utters; and few of us realize what a wonderful creature the fall cricket is. He was attuned to the temperature before man was capable of producing a thermometer; and the crickets kept time in a thousand pastures on warm nights before a sense of harmony had dawned upon man. It is an established fact that the wideler is an established fact that the crickets never chirp when the temperature is lower than 50 degrees; and when the cricket chirps 100 times in a minute the temperature is 64 degrees; they all chirp in unison in each field, but in the different keys in different communities. Those familiar with the musical habits of this queerly shaped creature can tell by counting the num-ber of chirps a minute the cricket is indulging in exactly what the temper-ature is at the time. This living ther-mometer with its love-notes, warning notes and battle cry, is one of the most wonderful creatures in nature.

We all wish that these war drives were accompanied with good sense and good manners, but since they are just human this is too much to ex-pect. The patriot who is doing his best has to be nudged the same as the citizen who shows no awakened in-terest, and if he politely says "noth-ing doing," he is threatened with beng reported as a slacker, netwith-tanding he has his inside pocket rowded with war savings stamps and conds. There are citizens who are tiving and lending for war purposes all the money they can afford, and here are twice as many good patri-tic citizens who would invest money they had it, and there are a few o are only doing what they are sed to do. The drive, though very agreeable to the generous, is made necessary by those who are lacking had disposition and enthusiasm. The ill-mannered solicitor is a misplaced payn and naturally gets hard knocks. Let's keep sweet and treat the fools according to their felly.

How feeling helps in thought proper. The heart must be right in order that we may realize the power of truth, or the love of God. How many think you who say "Our Father who art in Heaven" feel as they would if they were addressing a loving fether in the home ing father in the home, or a dear friend who commanded their fullest confidence and admiration, Prayer is attached the next morning. How the toad senses the direction in which to go is a problem the scientists are not evening and hasten as if he had for-gotten something. I timed him and measured the number of feet he hopped in a minute and found he was ca pable of hopping faster than the average man can walk.

Do most people think more of style in the pulpit than they do of the Word. How few sense what a weak thing oratory is in the presence of truth when most awkwardly speken. Preaching is a good thing; and no man can make it too good, but the man can make it too good: but the elegance of expression is not the thing to be admired, for the spirit of truth contained in the preaching is the spiritual food of God's children. The scholarship from the speaker's lips cannot enter into you, but the truth clothed in his words can become a developing force in your character, and a help to other men. What is called the best preaching is often so gorded the proposition of the best preaching is often so gorded the proposition of the proposition of the best preaching is often so gorded the proposition of the pr is divine and the source of its own effectiveness or power. The pastor is merely the servant of truth, and he is to be pitied if he mars the beauty and power of the Gospel.

I saw the first snow-bird this year on Sept. 21st and heard the first chickadee on the 17th and he was still in evidence on the 25th. If this does not mean an earlier setting in of win-ter, the unusual coolness of September 2 and average height of twenty ter, the unusual coolness of September, was doubtless the inciting cause of their early arrival. The heavy September rains drove the sparrows to the gardens to share the thistle bird's food, and the bluejay comes now and then for a feed upon cunflower seed. The birds of passage have not come down yet, but all the finches from the north will come a little earlier perhaps because of the raw condition of the atmosphere; but they are likely to find seeds scarcer since the continuous rains float them tince the continuous rains float them away and cover them with earth. I have seen more young goldfinches and sparrows at the sunflowers this fall

Childs of that city, who was formerly Miss Jessie Hopkins of Norwich. Within a few months the saloons, under the necessities of war conditions, will have been obliged to go out of business. The places they occupied will be vacant—thousands upon thousands of them. What is to be done with these places? To what use shall they, be put If they are not used, it will be a waste. Much hardship will result. The business fabric will be strained. It should have time to readjust itself to the new conditions.

How is the problem to be met? By turning the places where the saloons were into community centres, says one who has taken an active part in the development of the community idea—Mrs. Jessie H. Childs, a member of the organization of the Community Clearing House at 217 West Twenty-second Street, of which John Collier is the head. These places, she is ays, should be made into community meeting centres, virtually clubhouses, where the people of the neighborhood have an abundance of good music. Every neighborhood has its talent. That should be encouraged, developed. employed. We should have gymnasiums, too, and swimming pools. And we should have billiard tables—in should be modeled largely upon those which have made the Y.
